OPI School Staffing Project: TEAMS Update

Last fall, the OPI opened the first installment of a new data system designed to collect and use education licensure, school employment and accreditation data more efficiently. The second installment rolled out at the beginning of 2014. This session will provide an update on this project, including highlights from the 2013-2014 collection, anticipated system enhancements, and a brief look ahead to the fall 2014 collection.
